YOU ARE THE UNIVERSE:
RAM DASS MAPS THE JOURNEY
RAM DASS, ARRANGED BY AMY BUETENS

“You Are the Universe: Ram Dass Maps the Journey is a profound exploration of spirituality and self-discovery. Ram Dass, a celebrated and well-respected spiritual teacher, invites readers to embark on a transformative journey, blending Eastern philosophy with modern insights. After his death in 2019, his writings and lectures were thoughtfully arranged and illustrated into this powerful book that delves into the interconnectedness of life, encouraging a shift in perspective towards a more expansive and interconnected understanding of existence. With wisdom and compassion, Ram Dass navigates complex concepts, making them accessible for readers on their own personal quests for meaning. Divided into 3 sections (Ram Dass's life story, a heavily illustrated exploration of the soul & ego, and a toolbox for methods to become a more loving & self-aware individual), this book serves as a compelling guide for those seeking a deeper understanding of the universe and their place within it. After all, we are all born into a body - a ‘space suit’, as the book suggests. After a while, we don't seem to notice the suit very much. Ram Dass encourages you to look further inward and remember that you are not just a space suit, but a soul on a journey made of love & wisdom.” – Natalie Cubbon, Oil Region Library Association

BABEL: OR, THE NECESSITY OF VIOLENCE
AN ARCANE HISTORY OF THE OXFORD TRANSLATORS’ REVOLUTION
R. F. KUANG

“It’s no secret that I have a type (it's dark academia), so I was ecstatic when I heard about R.F. Kuang's Babel, which also deals with my other loves (languages, translation, & etymology). In Babel, a young Cantonese boy, orphaned by the plague, is claimed by an English man with the condition that the boy studies language to prepare himself for enrollment at Oxford's Royal Institute of Translation, or Babel. The students at Babel have a wide range of job opportunities once graduated, but their ultimate goal is to work on the tower's top floor, where silver bars are enchanted through the power of translation. This silver-working is the heart of Britain's power and their quest for colonization. Kuang presents a critique of the growth of the British empire in the 1800s through an anti-colonial, anti-imperialist, and anti-capitalist lens. Due to this book pinging so many of my interests, I was able to overlook a lot of flaws it has. Some characters come across as flat, the footnotes (if you actually see them) and some explanations will rip you out of a scene for some linguistic jargon (of which I ate right up), and the lack of thorough explanation of how the silver-working actually works in the real world was a let down for me. Kuang took dark academia, blended it with historical fiction, added some fantasy/magical realism, and sprinkled in a little nonfiction along the way. Every reader who picks up this book will take away something different from it, and that alone makes it worth reading.” – Emily Antkowiak, Oil City Library

IONA IVERSON’S RULES FOR COMMUTING
CLARE POOLEY

"I recently listened to this delightful book on Libby. The narrator can make or break an audiobook and this one did a fine job with the voices. But it’s really about the story, isn't it? Much is made of Iona's attitude toward life and how human we all are no matter our background or current lifestyles. The author presented these ideas in a sweet story about making assumptions based on appearances and where that can lead that kept me listening to the very end. An event at the beginning of the story brings several train commuters (who wouldn't have normally spoken to each other) into a conversation that turns into a months-long journey of friendships and realizations and general betterment of their lives -- all because Iona got involved. This book did not have foul language, sex scenes or violence -- yay! It was good enough for me to submit this review!" - Debra Houser, Franklin Public Library
Franklin Library Receives Generous Estate Donation

The Franklin Public Library recently was the recipient of a generous donation from the estate of Melinda Jean Remley, who passed away in May of 2023.

According to her obituary, Melinda was a graduate of Oil City High School, Class of 1967, and went on to graduate from Clarion State University with degrees in Secondary Education, Reading Specialist, and Library Science. From 1971 - 1974 she was an elementary school teacher at Sugarcreek and Cooperstown Elementary Schools. From 1974 -1986 she was a reading teacher at Rocky Grove High School and was also involved with teaching gifted students and the yearbook class. From 1986-1987 she furthered her education at Temple University in Philadelphia, PA.

She was Medical Records Director from 1988-1990 at Franklin Regional Medical Center. She was Director of Clinical Information from 1990-1992. She was Quality Improvement Manager from 1992-1994. In 1994 she was appointed Vice President, Patient Manager Service at Northwest Medical Center and obtained her Doctorate Degree in Hospital Administration.

We're extremely grateful for the contribution made to honor Melinda's legacy. We plan to utilize a portion of the funds to make immediate building repairs. The rest will be invested to support funding for the Franklin Public Library's services & programs for years to come.

Franklin Library Hosting Bunco Party

Join us at the Franklin Public Library for a Bunco Party on Thursday, February 8th! Registration is required - sign up at the Franklin Public Library or by calling (814) 432-5062. Each game is limited to 24 players & games start at 11:00AM. The registration fee is $20/player and includes lunch. All proceeds benefit the Franklin Public Library.

Bunco is a dice game generally played with twelve or more players, divided into groups of four, trying to score points while taking turns rolling three dice in a series of six rounds. A bunco is achieved when a person rolls three-of-a-kind and all three numbers match the round number.

The Franklin Public Library went through a modernization project in the late 1970s. A new wing was added to house the adult collections, space was reconfigured with the removal of partitions, and new shelving was installed where the YA section is housed today. This photo from 1979 shows Mildred Judson, a library employee, taking care of the front desk and getting ready to assist patrons. A new circulation desk came to the Franklin Public Library in October 2023 after 2 years of planning. It was created by Hardwood Expressions and is well loved by staff and patrons alike!

The Cloisters
Katy Hays
In this sinister, jaw-dropping debut novel, a circle of researchers uncover a mysterious deck of tarot cards & shocking secrets in New York’s famed Met Cloisters.

The Mona Lisa Vanishes
Nicholas Day
This middle-grade nonfiction narrative details how the Mona Lisa was stolen from the Louvre, how the robbery made the portrait the most famous artwork in the world - and how the painting by Leonardo da Vinci should never have existed at all.

BLK Art
Zaria Ware
A fun & fact-filled introduction to the dismissed Black art masters and models who shook up the world. Elegant. Refined. Exclusionary. Interrupted. The foundations of the fine art world are shaking.

Horse
Geraldine Brooks
A discarded painting in a junk pile, a skeleton in an attic, and the greatest racehorse in American history: from these strands, a Pulitzer Prize winner braids a sweeping story of spirit, obsession, and injustice across American history.

The Art Thief
Michael Finkel
For centuries, works of art have been stolen in countless ways from all over the world, but no one has been quite as successful at it as the master thief Stéphane Breitwieser. Carrying out more than 200 heists over nearly 10 years in museums and cathedrals all over Europe, Breitwieser stole more than 300 objects, until it all fell apart in spectacular fashion.

The 12-Hour Art Expert
Noah Charney
Interested in art but feel under-informed? Curious but afraid you might not “get” it? This book guides its readers through a brief series of masterpieces of Western art - from cave paintings to sharks in formaldehyde. 12 chapters teach readers about art, the art trade, & art history in a thorough (though concise) fashion.
